

Reorganization Sale

Read The Reasons Here.

I have sold my business at 7 East Broad Street and the new owners will take possession January 2, 1911.

The terms of sale compel me to turn all my present stock into cash before the new owners take charge.

My business has grown continuously and to keep pace with my success it was necessary to interest additional capital.

The arrangements for the reorganization have been concluded and I will retain an active interest in the conduct and management of the new concern.

To the regular customers of my store I want to say, that during the progress of this sale they will have the same courteous treatment and care of their interest as usual. Our stock being large and complete they will find just what they want, the only apparent change will be money saving prices which this sale will afford and which our friends should not object to.

Read Why You Should Attend This Sale

Particular attention is called to the fact that during my entire business career in this city it has been my chief thought to provide only the highest grade of merchandise in each department, only the dependable kind of goods could find a place in my establishment, so that in inaugurating a sale of this kind I can promise you goods of known and proved value and service. The urgent reason for the sale will not allow me to think of but one object—the quick moving out of all the present stock.

This Sale Will Start Thursday Morning at Nine o'Clock

And for the quick handling of the many who will surely take advantage of the special price offering we are going to make and the money saving that will come to all who patronize this sale we have arranged our stock in a manner that will commend itself to your best judgment. The garments will be found conveniently arranged for quick choosing. The old and new prices which we have placed on same, which will prove of the greatest saving to buyers who can now secure at this time, when goods are wanted; lowest sale prices ever seen in this city, and not at an out of season time, when their wants have been supplied.
